Adventist Church leaders are urging members worldwide to send Christmas greeting cards to two church members detained in Togo on what they say are false charges. They say holiday greetings will encourage the men as they spend the holiday season awaiting release.. Adventist pastor Antonio Monteiro and church member Bruno Amah were detained in March. Now, church leaders hope the Christmas cards encourage the two men as they spend the holiday season in prison awaiting release. "We would like cards to come from as many countries as possible," said John Graz, director of Public Affairs and Religious Liberty for the Adventist world church. Graz is leading diplomatic efforts to release the men. Pasteur Antonio dos Anjos Monteiro Union du Sahal. B.P. 2157— Lomé, Togo
